Bali Built Homes, LLC, specializes in island homes. Gathering together an international team of the top construction company in Bali and an interior design group, the company introduced their pre-built hardwood homes to Hawai'i a little over two years ago.

Michael and Lani McLychock, owners of Bali Built, always felt that when you live in the tropics, there's no need to build the same style home that you would on the mainland. This became their driving force for founding the company. Designed for modern tropical living, every Bali Built home offers spacious covered lanais and expansive glass sliding doors for extended open living and enhanced views. Open floor plans and cathedral ceilings bring spaciousness as well as a touch of elegance to these tropical dream homes, and all homes come complete with designer hardwood kitchen cabinets and bathroom vanities and a range of finishing choices. The standard house consists of the exotic hardwoods, bangkirai, and merbau, with ironwood roofs.

"Our customers want open-style living," says Lani McLychock, co-owner and Director of Sales and Marketing. "That's the "Tropical Lifestyle" and the advantage and beauty of living here."

Bali Built's design experts specialize in making each home a reflection of the owner, their personality, lifestyle and design tastes. A world-renowned architect designs every home and is custom tailored to suit each customer. Michael "Miquel" McCoy, Bali Built's international project director heads up the Design Team and has spent the past twelve years sourcing top quality materials throughout Indonesia and Asia, including custom stone products, furniture and accessories for use in Bali Built Homes. "It's the fine attention to details that people notice," he says, such as the black Chinese granite countertops, solid teak kitchen cabinets, custom stone sinks and bathtubs and hand-made copper soaking tubs.

"Building on any island has its challenges," says Michael McLychock, co-owner and President. "We provide customers assistance in creating more ease with the building process whether it is doing a spec home, creating an entire development project or building their ultimate "Dream Home."
